

1. Hi:

I am not the owner of the rat that you found, but would be happy to adopt him if you need a place for him to go to. My son has 4 now and is very involved with his ratties..he loves to train them!

2. Hi.

I don't want the rat, but I want to thank you for your compassion toward the poor little domesticated creature.

Gee, your story would make a good children's book.

3. we take him if you still have him

4. I am interested in your rat and would be down that way Friday to pick up a gecko. I want a rat that I can take with me. He would spend time at the pet shop I help out in it would be a way of showing people they are more than just snake food.

Could you call and talk to me? I want to be able to ask what kind of home and attention you will be able to provide to this good animal.

206.xxx.xxxx.

I am a 65 years old person not a kid and all my pets are pampered since I prefer animals to people. He would be pampered since he would go to work with me .Marty I will be leaving the house by 12 to do some errands in that part of town so please answer me back

5. If his owner doesn't respond I am interested in adopting him.

Thanks –Corinne

6. If you are looking for a rat, then call 206.547.1675 and tell me what kind of home and attention you are going to be able to provide to this good animal. Otherwise, I am sure that I will be able to find a good home for him.

7. I have two rats as it is and they go with me almost everywhere. Dharia is mine and Shadow is my friend's rat, they live together.

I adore rats and spoil them rotten.

I will give you a call today. –Corinne

8. Hi, I'm interested in the pet rat, if he is still available. But I'm also wondering if the owner has tried looking for him as well. I'd rather him go to the original owner above all else for his sake. Please let me know if he is available and if there is an adoption fee. Thank you.

Kai

There is no adoption fee, but I would expect you to spend money buying him a good pen, toys, and other supplies before you bring him home.

I am sure the owner has been looking for him. I have posted his ad twice on Craigslist and posted twenty flyers near Greenlake, and I do not know what else I could do.

If you are interested in adopting him then please call 206.xxx.xxxx and be prepared to describe what kind of home and attention you can provide to this good animal.

10. where is greenlake? I've owned and bred rats before, but have none now. He sounds wonderful and i am interested in him if you still have him. Thanks

11. I seen that rat on here just a couple of days ago. He was up for adoption. and yes they said he was a really good rat.

12. Hi!

I'm not the owner, but I would love to have your rat if you can't find another great home for him. I have a huge cage (~ 4'x2'x2'), and most of the supplies needed to take care of him, along with a ton of time for him. I had a large brown rat for the span of his life, so I have some experience with them, and I love the shoulder perchers! I would prefer his owner popping up and that this was all just a horrible mistake, but I can take him at any time should you choose.

Thanks,
Amy

13. Hi my name is Mirami McAuliffe. i am not the original owner of the rat BUT i have been keeping an eye on craigslist because i really want a male rat that i can take out in public. If the original owner doesn't respond (because they have priority over me if they do) I would really like to be a possible future owner. :) there is only one situation but i'm sure i could work with it if it doesn't work for you. i move back to Bellingham where i go to school in september and my mom (who i live with during the summer) doesn't like rats. is there any chance you could hold onto it until september? if not that is ok and i'll just talk with my mom because this rat seems like a perfect fit :)

thank you!

Mirami

14. Hello,

I was wondering if you were still looking for a home for the adorable rat you found? I've wanted a rat for a while and this little guy's story stuck out to me!

I live in the Greenlake/U-District area as well!

Joslyn

15. I hope you find a home for him soon. I had 4 rats that died of old age a year ago and recently had them cremated. My favorite was my rat Billy. He came when called, was like having a Chihuahua in the house and as the love of my life for the three years he was around, he was in pet store for a year.

16. Please let me know if I can help

17. Oh my gosh! Your post brought tears to my eyes! Poor lil thing! Bless you for caring for this beautiful, precious lil creature! If I was closer, I'd take him in a heartbeat! But it sounds like you'll have an easy time finding a home for such a sweetie anyway! We currently have a sweet lil rattie that was abandoned on the corner in front of my house.....

18. Thank you for stopping and picking this poor fellow up!

Good luck finding his owners or a new home.
